About the Course

In 2004, the WRHA Emergency Task Force acknowledged the need for Emergency Room education at all experience levels. The WRHA Advanced Emergency Nursing Program is an emergency specific education program, developed to address the extensive and unique learning needs of experienced emergency nurses.

The goal of the course is to incorporate the art and science of nursing, enabling participants to become experts and leaders in emergency nursing.

Course Content

The 18-week course is comprised of nine modules which incorporate both the Theoretical and Clinical aspects of emergency nursing. Course content includes:

- Mental Health/Professionalism
- Advanced Trauma Life Support (Audit)

Clinical

The majority of clinical time will be spent in various regional Emergency Departments. As well, clinical experience in specialized areas will be scheduled to reinforce theoretical content.

Theoretical content will be in the form of lectures, skills stations, written tests, and formal student presentations. Lectures will be delivered by a variety of specialists.
